Operating through self-funding, one of Myanmar's leading environmental education organizations, dedicated to sharing knowledge and research on environmental issues, their impacts, conservation, and mitigation strategies. The organization was established to enhance public awareness of environmental challenges and to promote sustainable development in Myanmar. EHS Myanmar collaborates with international institutions, NGOs, INGOs, CBOs, environmental clubs, and youth organizations to achieve its mission.

Why you should join?

The program isn't simply to recruit interns – we're trying to develop future environmental professionals while running a lean, volunteer-based organization. You can apply to one of three teams based on your interests. The program offers realworld experience and guidance for your academic path. By the end, you'll gain key insights into environmental management, engineering concept and sustainability development theoretical knowledge. We're proud to share that 55 interns have graduated from 15 batches, with most now studying abroad on scholarships in the US, Germany, Japan, Korea, Thailand, Vietnam, Taiwan and Indonesia.
